Workshop 2nd Edition

The EU in Its International Institutional Relationships

This workshop, now in its second edition, is the result of a scientific research activity that the trainees carried out in two phases during the International Organization course.

In the first phase, the trainees were asked to apply the general 'categories' (founding treaty, members, organs, competences, acts, etc.) to an international organization, freely chosen by each of them. The aim was to identify the type of international organization and verify the organization's ability to establish international relations with other states, organizations, and international bodies.

In the second phase, the trainees were asked to investigate the relationship between their organization and the European Union in order to verify the Union's capacity to project its values and objectives in external relations.

Students now present their scientific reports as follows:
